

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

PREFACE.

FEW men who have written books have been able to win so large a share of the personal affection of their readers as honest Izaak Walton has done, and few books are laid down with so genuine a feeling of regret as the "Complete Angler" certainly is, that they are no longer. "One of the gentlest and tenderest spirits of the seventeenth century," we all know his dear old face, with its cheerful, happy, serene look, and we should all have liked to accompany him on one of those angling excursions from Tottenham High Cross, and to have listened to the quaint, garrulous, sportive talk, the outcome of a religion which was like his homely garb, not too good for every-day wear. We see him, now diligent in his business, now commemorating the virtues of that cluster of scholars and churchmen with whose friendship he was favoured in youth, and teaching his young brother-in-law, Thomas Ken, to walk in their faintly footsteps, —now busy with his rod and line, or walking and talking with a friend, staying now and then to quaff an honest glass at a wayside ale-house— leading a simple, cheerful, blameless life

“Thro’ near a century of pleasant years.” *

* “Happy old man, whose worth all mankind knows
Except himself, who charitably shows
The ready road to Virtue, and to Praise,
The road to many long, and happy days ;
The noble arts of generous piety,
And how to compass true felicity.
—— he knows no anxious cares,
Thro’ near a Century of pleasant years ;
Easy he lives and cheerful shall he die,
Well spoken of by late posterity.”

PREFACE.

We have said that the reader regrets that Walton should have left so little behind him : his “ Angler ” and his Lives are all that is known to most. But we are now enabled to present those who love his memory with a collection of fugitive pieces, in verse and prose, extending in date of composition over a period of fifty years,—beginning with the Elegy on Donne, in 1633, and terminating only with his death in 1683. All these, however unambitious, are more or less characteristic of the man, and impregnated with the same spirit of genial piety that distinguishes the two well-known books to which they form a supplement.

Walton’s devotion to literature must have begun at an early age ; for in a little poem, entitled The Love of Amos and Laura, published in 1619, when he was only twenty-six, and attributed variously to Samuel Purchas, author of “ The Pilgrims,” and to Samuel Page, we find the following dedication to him :—

FRIEND, IZ. WA.

“To thee, thou more then thrice beloved friend,
I too unworthy of so great a blisse :
These harsh-tun'd lines I here to thee commend,
Thou being cause it is now as it is :
For hadst thou held thy tongue, by silence might
These have been buried in oblivious night.

“If they were pleasing, I would call them thine,
And disavow my title to the verse :
But being bad, I needes must call them mine.
No ill thing can be cloathed in thy verse.
Accept them then, and where I have offended,
Raze thou it out, and let it be amended.

have now no means of knowing ; it has not been discovered that any have been printed, unless we adopt the theory advocated by Mr. Singer,* and by a writer in the "Retrospective Review,"† that the poem of Thealma and Clearchus, which he published in the last year of his life, as a posthumous fragment of his relation John Chalkhill, was really a juvenile work of his own. Some plausibility is lent to this notion by the fact that Walton speaks of the author with so much reticence and reserve in his preface to the volume, signed at the end with the initials "J. C.," has been attributed to Walton's friend, John Chalkhill, whose posthumous poem, Thealma and Clearchus, he published in the last year of his life. The lines to Walton do not appear in the earlier quarto edition of the book issued by the same publisher in 1613, or in the later quarto of 1628.

and also that in introducing two of Chalkhill's songs into the "Complete Angler," he does not bestow on them the customary words of commendation. This theory has been rebutted by others, who assert that Walton was of too truthful and guileless a nature to resort to such an artifice. We confess that we are unable to see anything dishonest in the adoption, as a pseudonym, of the name of a deceased friend, or anything more than Walton appears to have done on another occasion when he published his two letters on "Love and Truth." It is certain, however, that a family of Chalkhills existed, with whom Walton was closely connected by his marriage with the sister of Bishop Ken. But that an "acquaintant and friend of Edmund Spenser," capable of writing such a poem as Thealma and Clearchus, should have kept his talents so concealed, that in an age of commendatory verses no slightest contemporary record of him exists—is, to say the least, extraordinary.

extraordinary. There are cogent arguments then on both sides of the question, and there is very little positive proof on either: so we must be content to leave the matter in some doubt and obscurity.

The first production to which our author attached the well-known signature of "Iz. Wa." was an Elegy on the Death of Dr. Donne, the Dean of St. Paul's, prefixed to a collection of Donne's Poems. Walton was then forty years of age. From this time forward we find him more or less engaged, at not very long intervals, on literary labours, till the very year of his death.

The care which Walton spent on his productions seems to have been very great. He wrote and re-wrote, corrected, amended, rescinded, and added. This very poem—the Elegy on Donne—he completely remodelled in his old age, when he inserted it in the collection of his Lives.

But

PREFACE.

But we have thought it well to give the original version here as a literary curiosity, and the first work of his that has come down to us. The original Lives themselves — especially those of Wotton and Donne — were mere sketches of what they are in their present enlarged form.

Walton had the good fortune to be thrown very early in life into the society and intimacy of men who were his superiors in rank and education. But he had enough of culture, joined to his inherent reverence of mind, to appreciate and understand all that they had and he wanted.

The preface to Sir John Skeffington's Heroe of Lorenzo had for two centuries lain forgotten, and escaped the notice of Walton's biographers, till in 1852 it was discovered by Dr. Blifs of Oxford, and communicated by him to the late William Pickering.

The original Spanish work was first published in 1630. The author's real name was not Lorenzo,

PREFACE.

Lorenzo, but Balthazar Gracian, a Jesuit of Aragon, who flourished during the first half of the seventeenth century, when the cultivated style took possession of Spanish prose, and rose to its greatest consideration.* It is a collection of short, wise apothegms and maxims for the conduct of life, sometimes illustrated by stories of valour, or prowess, or magnanimity, of the old Castilian heroes who figure in "Count Lucanor." The book, though now no longer read, must have been very popular at one time, for there exist two or three later English versions of it, without, however, the nervous concentration of style and idiomatic diction that characterize the translation sent forth to the world under Walton's auspices.

In one of the very few copies known to exist, and now in the library of Emanuel College, Cambridge, its original possessor, Archbishop Sancroft, has written :—"Is. In the British Museum copy of this tract is the following note on one of the fly-leaves in the autograph of the late William Pickering :—

“The present is the only copy I have met with after twenty years’ search, excepting the one in Emanuel College, Cambridge. W. Pickering.”

The copy described above [i.e., the Emanuel College copy] appears to be the same edition as the present [that now in the British Museum], but has the following variation. After the title-page is printed “Your friend,” without the N. N. which is found in this copy. But what is more remarkable, the printed word Author is run through, and corrected with a pen, and over it written Publisher, which is evidently in the handwriting of Walton. So Mr. Pickering further certifies.

The following allusion towards the bottom of p. 37 confirms the idea of Walton's authorship. Speaking of Hugh Peters and John Lilbourn, the writer says :—“ Their turbulent lives and uncomfortable deaths are not I hope yet worn out of the memory of many. He that compares them with the holy life and happy death of Mr. George Herbert, as it is plainly and I hope truly writ by Mr. Isaac Walton, may in it find a perfect pattern for an humble and devout Christian to imitate,” &c.

The following are the chief parallel passages in this pamphlet and in Walton's other writings, as indicated by Zouch :—

PREFACE.

Second Letter, p. 19.

I wish as heartily as you do that all such Clergy-mens Wives as have silk Cloaths be-daubed with Lace, and their heads hanged about with painted Ribands, were enjoined Penance for their pride: And their Husbands punished for being so tame, or so lovingly-simple, as to suffer them; for, by such Cloaths, they proclaim their own Ambition, and their Husbands folly.

And I say the like, concerning their striving for Precedency.

And, I confess also, what you say of a Clergy-mans bidding to fast on the Eves of Holy-days, in Lent, and the Ember Weeks: And I wish those biddings were forborn, or better practised by themselves.

Life of George Herbert.

Mr. George Herbert having changed his sword and silk clothes into a canonical coat, thus warned Mr. Herbert against this egregious folly of striving for precedence:—"You are now a minister's wife, and must now so far forget your father's house, as not to claim a precedence of any of your parishioners," &c.

PREFACE.

To the present Editor the collection and annotation of these Remains has been a most welcome labour of love. Some of his oldest and most cherished memories connect themselves with the author of the "Complete Angler." That book was one of the first that he ever read with real and genuine delight; and even before reading days commenced, in the earliest dawn of memory, the place where Walton had cut his familiar signature of "Iz. Wa." on Chaucer's tomb in Westminster Abbey, was pointed out to him often by a kindred spirit now here no more. The name of Walton will also be found enshrined in the earliest prose production* to which the Editor prefixed his own name.

To the Reader.

READER,

HOUGH the Authour had some years before his lamented death, compos'd, review'd, and corrected these Eglogues; yet, he left no Epistle to the Reader, but only a Title, and a blanke leafe for that purpose.

Whether he meant some Allegoricall exposition of the Shepheards names, or their Eglogues, is doubtfull: but 'tis certain, that as they are, they appear a perfect pattern of the Authour; whose person, and minde, were both lovely, and his conversation such as distill'd pleasure, knowledge, and vertue, into his friends and acquaintance.

'Tis confest, these Eglogues are not so wholly divine as many of his publisht Meditations, which speak

WALTONIANA.

He speaks his affections to be set upon things that are above, and yet even such men have their intermitted howres, and (as their company gives occasion) commixtures of heavenly and earthly thoughts.

You are therefore requested to fancy him cast by fortune into the company of some yet unknown Shepherds: and you have a liberty to beleieve 'twas by this following accident.

“ He in a Sommers morning (about that howre

Reader, at this time and place, the Authour contracted a friendship with certain single-hearted Shepherds : with whom (as he return'd from his River-recreations) he often rested himselfe, and whilest in the calm evening their flocks fed about them, heard that discourse, which (with the Shepherds names) is presented in these Eglogues.

Debts due to his great Merits : but for me,
My aymes are like my self, humble and low,
Too mean to speak his praise, too mean to show
The World what it hath lost in losing thee,
Whose Words and Deeds were perfect Harmony.

But now 'tis lost ; lost in the silent Grave,
Lost to us Mortals, lost, 'till we shall have Admission to that Kingdom, where He sings Harmonious Anthems to the King of Kings.

Sing on blest Soul ! be as thou wast below,
A more than common instrument to show
Thy Makers praise ; sing on, whilst I lament
Thy loss, and court a holy discontent,
With such pure thoughts as thine, to dwell with me,
Then I may hope to live, and dye like thee,
To live belov'd, dye mourn'd, thus in my grave ;
Blessings that Kings have wish'd, but cannot have.

Let this be told the Reader,

THAT Sir John Skeffington (one of his late Majesties servants, and a stranger to no language of Christendom) did about 40 years now past, bring this Hero out of Spain into England.

There they two kept company together 'till about 12 months now past : and then, in a retyrement of that learned knights (by reason of a sequestration for his masters cause) a friend coming to visit him, they fell accidentally into a discourse of the wit and galantry of the Spanish Nation.

That discourse occasioned an example or two, to be brought out of this Hero : and, those examples (with Sir John's choice language and illustration)

tration) were so relisht by his friend (a stranger to the Spanish tongue) that he became restless 'till he got a promise from Sir John to translate the whole, which he did in a few weeks; and so long as that imployment lasted it proved an excellent diversion from his many sad thoughts; But he hath now chang'd that Condition, to be possesst of that place into which sadnesse is not capable of entrance.

And his absence from this world hath occasion'd mee (who was one of those few that he gave leave to know him, for he was a retyr'd man) to tell the Reader that I heard him say, he had not made the English so short, or few words, as the originall; because in that, the Author had exprest himself so enigmatically, that though he indeavour'd to translate it plainly; yet, he thought it was not made comprehensible enough for common Readers, therefore he declar'd to me, that he intended to make it so by a coment on the margent; which he had begun, but (be it spoke with sorrow) he and those and my self, with those very many that lov'd him,

DEDICATION

DEDICATION OF THE LIFE OF DONNE AND ADVERTISEMENT TO THE READER.

1658.

[The

[The Life of John Donne, Dr: in Divinity, and Late Dean of Saint Pauls Church London. The second impression corrected and enlarged. Ecclus. 48. 14. He did wonders in his life, and at his death his works were marvelous. London, Printed by J. G. for R. Marriot, and are to be sold at his shop under S. Dunstons Church in Fleet-street. 1658.]

To

WALTONIANA.

To My Noble & honoured Friend Sir Robert Holt of Aston, in the County of Warwick, Baronet.

SIR,

WHEN this relation of the life of Doctor Donne was first made publick, it had besides the approbation of our late learned & eloquent King, a conjunction with the Authors most excellent Sermons to support it; and thus it lay some time fortified against prejudice; and those passions that are by busie and malicious men too freely vented against the dead.

WALTONIANA.

And yet, now, after almost twenty yeares, when though the memory of Dr. Donne himself, must not, cannot die, so long as men speak English; yet when I thought Time had made this relation of him so like my self, as to become useles to the world, and content to be forgotten; I find that a retreat into a desired privacy, will not be afforded; for the Printers will again expose it and me to publick exceptions; and without those supports, which we first had and needed, and in an Age too, in which Truth & Innocence have not beene able to defend themselves from worse then severe censures.

This I foresaw, and Nature teaching me self-preservation, and my long experience of your abilities assuring me that in you it may be found :* to you, Sir, do I make mine addresses for an umbrage and protection: and I make it with so much humble boldnesse, as to say 'twere degenerous in you not to afford it.

* Sic: probably a misprint for "be found?"—Ed.

For,

WALTONIANA.

For, Sir,

D^r. Donne was so much a part of yourself, as to be incorporated into your Family, by so noble a friendship, that I may say there was a marriage of souls betwixt him and your* reverend * John King,
Grandfather, who in his life was an B. of Lond.
Angel of our once glorious Church, and now no common Star in heaven.

And D^r. Donne's love died not with him, but was doubled upon his Heire, your beloved Uncle the Bishop of †Chichester, that lives † Hen: King, in this froward generation, to be an or- now B.C.
namment to his Calling. And this affection to him was by D^r. D. so testified in his life, that he then trusted him with the very secrets of his soul; & at his death, with what was dearest to him, even his fame, estate, & children.

And you have yet a further title to what was D^r. Donne's, by that dear affection & friendship that that was betwixt him and your parents, by which he entailed a love upon yourself, even in your infancy, which was encreased by the early testimonies of your growing merits, and by them continued, till D. Donne put on immortality; and so this mortall was turned into a love that cannot die.

And Sir, 'twas pity he was lost to you in your minority, before you had attained a judgement to put a true value upon the living beauties and elegancies of his conversation; and pittty too, that so much of them as were capable of such an expression, were not drawn by the pensil of a Tytian or a Tentoret, by a pen equall and more lasting then their art; for his life ought to be the example of more then that age in which he died. And yet this copy, though very much, indeed too much short of the Originall, will present you with some features not unlike your dead friend, and with fewer blemishes and more ornaments than when 'twas first made publique: which creates a contentment tentment to my selfe, because it is the more worthy of him, and because I may with more civility intitle you to it.

And in this designe of doing so, I have not a thought of what is pretended in most Dedications, a Commutation for Courtesies : no indeed Sir, I put no such value upon this trifle ; for your owning it will rather increase my Obligations. But my desire is, that into whose hands soever this shall fall, it may to them be a testimony of my gratitude to your self and Family, who descended to such a degree of humility as to admit me into their friendship in the dayes of my youth ; and notwithstanding my many infirmities, have continued me in it till I am become gray-headed ; and as Time has added to my yeares, have still increased and multiplied their favours.

This, Sir, is the intent of this Dedication : and having made the declaration of it thus publick, I shall conclude it with commending them and you to Gods deare love. I

WALTONIANA.

I remain, Sir, what your many merits have made me to be,

The humblest of your Servants,

ISAAC WALTON.

To

To the Reader.

MY desire is to inform and assure you, that shall become my Reader, that in that part of this following discourse, which is onely narration, I either speak my own knowledge, or from the testimony of such as dare do any thing, rather than speak an untruth. And for that part of it which is my own observation or opinion, if I had a power I would not use it to force any mans assent, but leave him a liberty to disbelieve what his own reason inclines him to.

Next, I am to inform you, that whereas Dr. Donne's life was formerly printed with his Sermons, and then had the same Preface or Introduction to it; I have not omitted it now, because I have no such confidence in what I have done, as to appear without an apology for my undertaking it.

I have said all when I have wished happineffe to my Reader.

To

WALTONIANA.

*To the Right Honourable PHILIP
Earl of Chesterfield, Lord
Stanhope of Shelford.*

MY LORD,

I HAVE conceived many Reasons, why I ought in Justice to Dedicate these Reliques of Your Great Uncle, Sir Henry Wotton, to Your Lordship; some of which are, that both Your Grand-mother and Mother had a double Right to them by a Dedication when first made Publick; as also, for their assisting me then, and since, with many Material Informations for the Writing his Life; and for giving me many of the Letters that have fallen from his curious Pen: so that they being now dead, these Reliques descend to You, as Heir
to

to them, and the Inheritor of the memorable Boston Palace, the Place of his Birth, where so many of the Ancient, and Prudent, and Valiant Family of the Wottons lie now Buried; whose remarkable Monuments You have lately Beautified, and to them added so many of so great Worth, as hath made it appear, that at the Erecting and Adorning them, You were above the thought of Charge, that they might, if possible, (for 'twas no easie undertaking) hold some proportion with the Merits of Your Ancestors.

My Lord, These are a part of many more Reasons that have inclin'd me to this Dedication; and these, with the Example of a Liberty that is not given, but now too usually taken by many Scriblers, to make trifling Dedications, might have begot a boldness in some Men of as mean as my mean Abilities to have undertaken this. But indeed, my Lord, though I was ambitious enough of undertaking it; yet, as Sir Henry Wotton hath said

said in a Piece of his own Character, That he was condemn'd by Nature to a bashfulness in making Requests : so I find myself (pardon the Parallel) so like him in this, that if I had not had more Reasons then I have yet exprest, these alone had not been powerful enough to have created a Confidence in me to have attempted it. Two of my unexpressed Reasons are, (give me leave to tell them to Your Lordship and the World) that Sir Henry Wotton, whose many Merits made him an Ornament even to Your Family, was yet so humble, as to acknowledge me to be his Friend ; and died in a belief that I was so : since which time, I have made him the best return of my Gratitude for his Condescension, that I have been able to express, or he capable of receiving : and, am pleased with my self for so doing.

My other Reason of this boldness, is, an encouragement (very like a command) from Your worthy Cousin, and my Friend, Mr. Charles Cotton, who

WALTONIANA.

who hath assured me, that You are such a Lover of the Memory of Your Generous Uncle, Sir Henry Wotton, that if there were no other Reason then my endeavors to preserve it, yet, that that alone would secure this Dedication from being unacceptable.

I wish, that nor he, nor I be mistaken ; and that I were able to make You a more Worthy Present.

My Lord, I am and will be

Your Humble and most

Affectionate Servant,

The Preface.

THE Reader will find in this Book, what the Title declares, A Pastoral History, in smooth and easie Verse; and will in it find many Hopes and Fears finely painted, and feelingly express'd. And he will find the first so often disappointed, when fullest of desire and expectation; and the later, so often, so strangely, and so unexpectedly reliev'd, by an unforeseen Providence, as may beget in him wonder and amazement.

And the Reader will here also meet with Passions heightened by easie and fit descriptions of Joy and Sorrow; and find also such various events and rewards of innocent Truth and undissembled
Honesty

WALTONIANA.

Honesty, as is like to leave in him (if he be a good natur'd Reader) more sympathizing and virtuous Impressions, than ten times so much time spent in impertinent, critical, and needless Disputes about Religion : and I heartily wish it may do so.

And, I have also this truth to say of the Author, that he was in his time a man generally known, and as well belov'd ; for he was humble, and obliging in his behaviour, a Gentleman, a Scholar, very innocent and prudent : and indeed his whole life was useful, quiet, and virtuous. God send the Story may meet with, or make all Readers like him.

WALTONIANA.

“ffor y’ ffriends q^{ue} this.

I ONLY knew Ben Jonson : But my Lord of Winton knew him very well ; and says, he was in the 6^o., that is, the uppermost fforme in Westminster scole, at which time his father dyed, and his mother married a brickelayer, who made him (much against his will) help him in his trade ; but in a short time, his scolemaister, M^r. Camden, got him a better imployment, which was to atend or accompany a son of Sir Walter Rauley’s in his travills. Within a short time after their return, they parted (I think not in cole bloud) and with a love sutable to what they had in their travilles (not to be commended). And then Ben began to set up for himself

WALTONIANA.

self in the trade by which he got his subsistence and fame, of which I need not give any account. He got in time to have a 100*l* a yeare from the king, also a pension from the cittie, and the like from many of the nobilitie and some of the gentry, w^{ch} was well pay'd, for love or fere of his railing in verse, or prose, or boeth. My lord told me, he told him he was (in his long retyrement and sickness, when he saw him, which was often) much afflickted, that hee had profained the scripture in his playes, and lamented it with horror : yet that, at that time of his long retyrement, his pension (so much as came in) was giuen to a woman that gouern'd him (with whome he liu'd and dyed near the Abie in Westminster); and that nether he nor she tooke too much care for next weike : and wood be sure not to want wine : of w^{ch} he usually tooke too much before he went to bed, if not oftener and foner. My lord tells me, he knowes not, but thinks he was born in Westminster. The question question may be put to M^r. Wood very easily upon what grounds he is positive as to his being born there; he is a friendly man, and will resolve it. So much for brave Ben. You will not think the rest so tedious as I do this.

WALTONIANA.

For y^r 2 and 3 q^{ue} of M^r. Hill, and Bilingsley, I do neither know nor can learn any thing worth telling you.

for y^r two remaining q^{ue} of M^r. Warner, and M^r. Harriott this :

M^r. Warner did long and constantly lodge nere the water-stares, or market, in Woolstable. Woolstable is a place not far from Charing-Crosse, and nerer to Northumberland-house. My lord of Winchester tells me, he knew him, and that he sayde, he first found out the circulation of the blood, and discover'd it to D^r. Harvie (who said that 'twas he (himselfe) that found it) for which he is so memorally famous. Warner had a pension of 40*l*. a yeare from that Earle of Northumberland that that lay so long a prisoner in the Towre, and for allowance from Sir Tho. Aylesbury, and with whom he usually spent his summer in Windsor Park, and was welcome, for he was harmless and quiet. His winter was spent at the Woolstable, where he died in the time of the parliament of 1640, of which or whome, he was no lover.

WALTONIAN A.

Mr. Herriott, my lord tells me, he knew also: That he was a more gentle man than Warner. That he had 120*l* a year pension from the said Earle (who was a lover of their studies), and his lodgings in Syon-house, where he thinks, or believes, he died.

This is all I know or can learn for your friend; which I wish may be worth the time and trouble of reading it.

IZAAK

IZAACK WALTON'S WILL.

1683.

IN the name of God Amen. I Izaak Walton the elder of Winchester being this present day in the neintyeth yeare of my age and in perfect memory for wich praysed be God : but Considering how so-dainly I may be deprived of boeth doe therefore make this my last will and testament as followeth. And first I doe [declare] my beleife to be that their is only one God who hath made the whole world and me and all mankinde to whome I shall give an account of all my actions which are not to be justified, but I hope pardoned for the merits of my saviour Jesus.—And because [the profession

WALTONIANA.

profession of] Christianity does at this time, seime to be subdevided into papist and protestant, I take it to be at least convenient to declare my beleife to be in all poynts of faith, as the Church of England now professeth. And this I doe the rather, because of a very long and very trew friendship with some of the Roman Church.

And for my worldly estate, (which I have neither got by falshood or flattery or the extreme crewelty of the law of this nation,) I doe hereby give and bequeth it as followeth.—First I give my son-in-law Doc^r. Hawkins and to his Wife, to them I give all my tytell and right of or in a part of a howse and shop in Pater-noster-rowe in London : which I hold by lease from the Lord Bishop of London for about 50 years to come. and I doe also give to them all my right and tytell of or to a howse in Chansery-lane, London ; where in M^r. Greinwood now dwelleth, in which is now about 16 years to come. I give these two leases to them, they

they saving my executor from all damage concerning the same. (And I doe also give to my saide daughter all my books this day at Winchester and Droxford : and what ever ells I can call mine their, except a trunk of linen w^{ch} I give my son Izaak Walton. but if he doe not marry, or use the saide linen himselfe, then I give the same to my granddaughter Anne Hawkins).

And I give to my son Izaak, all my right and tytell to a lease of Norington farme, which I hold from the lord B^p. of Winton.

And I doe also give him all my right and tytell to a farme or land near to Stafford : which I bought of M^r. Walter Noell : I say, I give it to him and [his] heares for ever. but upon the condition following. Namely—If my sone shall not marry before he shall be of the age of forty and one yeare ; or being married shall dye before the saide age and leve noe son to inherit the saide farme or land : or if his son [or sonns] shall not live to

attaine

WALTONIANA.

ataine the age of twentie and one yeare, to dispose otherwayes of it, then I give the saide farme or land to the towne or corperation of Stafford (in which I was borne,) for the good and benifit of some of the saide towne, as I shall direct and as followeth. but first note, that it is at this presant time rented for 21^{li} 10^s a yeare (and is like to hold the said rent, if care be taken to keipe the barne and howsing in repaire) and I wood have and doe give ten pownd of the saide rent, to binde out yearly two boyes, the sons of honest and pore parents to be apprentices to som tradesmen or handy-craftmen, to the intent the saide boyes [may] the better afterward get their owne living.—And I doe also give five pownd yearly, out of the said rent to be given to some meade-servant, that hath atain'd the age of twenty and [one] yeare (not les), and dwelt long in one servis, or to som honest pore man's daughter, that hath atain'd to that age, to [be] paide her, at or on the day of her marriage.

And

WALTONIANA.

And this being done, my will is, that what rent shall remaine of the saide farme or land, shall be disposed of as followeth.

First I doe give twenty shillings yearely, to be spent by the maior of Stafford and those that shall colect the said rent : and dispose of it as I have and shall hereafter direct. And that what mony or rent shall remaine undisposed offe shall be imployed to buie coles for some pore people, that shall most neide them in the said towne ; the saide coles to be delivered the last weike in Janewary, or in every first weike in Febrewary : I say then, because I take that time to be the hardest and most pinching times with pore people. And God reward those that shall doe this with out partialitie and with honestie and a good contience.

And if the saide maior and others of the saide towne of Stafford, shall prove so negligent or dishonest as not to imploy the rent by me given as intended and exprest in this my will, (which God forbid,) then I give the saide rents and profits, of the saide farme or land, to the towne and chiefe magestrats or governors of Eccles-hall, to be disposed by them in such maner as I have ordered the disposall of it, by the towne of Stafford. the said Farme or land being nere the towne of Eccles-hall.

And I give to my son-in-law Doctor Hawkins, (whome I love as my owne son) and to my daster his wife, and my son Izaak to each of them a ring with these words or motto;—love my memory, I. W. obiet = to the Lord B^p of Winton a ring with this motto—a mite for a million : I. W. obiet =” And to the freinds hereafter named I give to each of them a ring with this motto A friends farewell. I. W. obiet” = and my will is, the said rings be delivered within fortie dayes of my deth. and that the price or valew of all the saide rings shall be—13^s 4^d a peice.

I give to Doctor Hawkins Doctor Donns Sermons; which I have hear’d preacht, and read with much

WALTONIANA.

much content. to my son Izaak I give Doc^r Sibbs his Soules Conflict, and to my doughter his Brewsed Reide; desiring them to reade them so, as to be well aquanted with them. and I also give to her all my bookes at Winchester and Droxford, and what ever in those two places are or I can call mine : except a trunk of linen, which I gave to my son Izaak, but if he doe not live to make use of it, then I give the same to my grand-dafter, Anne Hawkins : And I give my dafter Doc^r Halls Works which be now at Farnham.

To my son Izaak I give all my books, (not yet given) at Farnham Castell and a deske of prints and pickters; also a cabinet nere my beds head, in w^{ch} are som littell things that he will vawle, tho of noe greate worth.

And my will and defyre is, that he will be kind to his Ante Beacham and his ant Rose Ken : by allowing the first about fiftie shilling a yeare in or for bacon and cheise (not more), and paying 4^{li} a yeare yeare toward the bordin of her son's dyut to M^r. John Whitehead. for his ante Ken, I defyre him to be kinde to her according to her neceslitie and his owne abillitie. and I comend one of her children to breide up (as I have saide I intend to doe) if he shall be able to doe it. as I know he will ; for, they be good folke.

WALTONIANA.

I give to M^r. John Darbishire the Sermons of M^r. Antony Faringdon, or of do^r Sanderfon, which my executor thinks fit. to my servant, Thomas Edghill I give five pownd in mony, and all my clothes linen and wollen except one sute of clothes, (which I give to M^r. Holinshed, and forty shiling) if the saide Thomas be my servant at my deth, if not my cloths only.

And I give my old friend M^r. Richard Marriot ten pownd in mony, to be paid him within . 3 . months after my deth. and I defyre my son to shew kindenes to him if he shall neide, and my son can spare it.

And

WALTONIANA.

And I doe hereby will and declare my son Izaak to be my sole executo^r of this my last will and testament; and Do^r Hawkins, to see that he performs it, which I doubt not but he will.

I defyre my buriall may be nere the place of my deth; and free from any ostentation or charg, but privately : this I make to be my last will, (to which I only add the codicell for rings,) this 16. day of August, 1683.
